Upon the renewal of Mr Alami's street trading consent in 2023, a representation from Mr Robert Smalley, Reading Borough Council Licensing Enforcement Officer was received and a hearing held on 28/11/2023. Mr Smalley stated that the consent should not be renewed due to the failure of Mr Alami to avail himself to a reasonable extent of the street trading consent. On 28/11/2023 the Sub-Committee decided to grant the application for the renewal of the Street Trading Consent for the sale of:

This consent was granted to include the above and 'Hot Food and Drink not specifically listed on any existing street trading consent/licence previously granted by Reading Borough Council'

26. APPLICATION FOR THE RENEWAL OF A STREET TRADING CONSENT, BROAD STREET, READING

The Sub-Committee considered a report on an application for the renewal of a street trading consent from Mr Salim Alami in respect of Broad Street, Reading.

The report stated that Mr Alami (the applicant) had held a street trading consent on Broad Street for over 15 years and for the majority of that time had sold leather goods, belts, scarves, sunglasses, gloves, hats and buckles. Upon renewal of his street trading consent in 2021 Mr Alami had successfully applied to sell juices, smoothies, slushies, shakes and cakes. The report stated that Mr Alami had submitted a renewal application for street trading consent on 10 October 2023 for the following:

Proposed trading hours:

Monday to Saturday - 0900hrs to 1800hrs.
Sunday - 1000hrs to 1700hrs.

Proposed goods to be sold:

Juices, Smoothies, Slushies, Shakes and Cakes.

A copy of the application was attached to the report at Appendix TS-1. A photograph of the location of the pitch applied for (location outside 105 Broad Street) was attached to the report at Appendix TS-2. The size of the proposed catering trailer was 12ft by 6ft and a photograph of the proposed catering trailer was attached to the report at Appendix TS-3.

The report explained that during the 28-day consultation period for the renewal application a representation had been received from Mr Robert Smalley, Reading Borough Council (RBC) Licensing Team. A copy of the representation was attached to the report at Appendix TS-4. The following appendices were attached to the representation:

- Appendix RS-1 – Street Trading Consent Application Form
- Appendix RS-2 – Photo of Trading Location
- Appendix RS-3 – Photo of Trailer
- Appendix RS-4 – Days Mr Alami Witnessed Not Trading
- Appendix RS-5 – Letter Requesting Explanation from Mr Alami
- Appendix RS-6 – Mr Alami's Response to Explanation Request

Information provided by the applicant to support the application was attached to the report at Appendix TS-5. The applicant and the applicant's representative had also submitted further information after the publication of the agenda which had been circulated to the Sub-Committee and had been published as a supplement agenda pack, marked as Additional Information 1 and Additional Information 2. The Additional Information included an undertaking from the applicant.

Tabitha Shaw, RBC Licensing Team, presented the report to the Sub-Committee. Peter Narancic and Ben Williams from the RBC Licensing Team also attended the meeting and asked and answered questions.

Mr Salim Alami (the applicant) attended the meeting with his representative, Mr Jon Payne of Licensing Lawyers. Both addressed the Sub-Committee and responded to questions from Councillors and the Licensing Team.

Robert Smalley, RBC Licensing Team, attended the meeting to present the representation he had submitted on behalf of the Licensing Team. He addressed the Sub-Committee and responded to questions.

The Sub-Committee considered the Licensing Team's concerns about the application which revolved around Mr Alami's failure to trade in the past. However, the Sub-Committee also heard Mr Alami's assertions that he was now ready and able to trade, subject to favourable weather conditions, having completed the refitting of the trailer and having arranged access to water. The Sub-Committee also heard that Mr Alami had been trading for 20 years, was committed to trading regularly and was willing to amend his application to include some hot drinks in order to increase when he might trade. The Sub-Committee understood the delays caused to the trailer refitting process and that items like juices and smoothies were in demand on a seasonal basis.

Resolved –

- (1) That, having given due consideration to the written evidence contained in the paperwork and the oral evidence at the meeting, to the relevant legislation, guidance, and policies of Reading Borough Council, and, in particular:
 - The Powers of the Authority in determining an application for the grant/renewal of a street trading consent;
 - The Local Government (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1982, and Schedule 4 in particular;
 - All representations;
 - All of the documents provided for the meeting; and,
 - The Reading Borough Council Street Trading Policy 2023-2028, and Annex 2 – Street Trading Standard Terms and Conditions:

The Sub-Committee grant the application for the renewal of the Street Trading Consent, incorporating all of the Street Trading Standard Terms and Conditions (set out at Annex 2 of the Reading Borough Council Street Trading Policy 2023-2028) for the sale of:

2023

Juices, Smoothies, Slushies, Shakes, Cakes and Hot Food and Drink not specifically listed on any existing street trading consent/licence previously granted by Reading Borough Council.

The Applicant's undertaking was accepted. The logistics of how and when the trading log would be given to Licensing officers was left to the Applicant and the Licensing Team to finalise and was not a condition made by the Sub-Committee.

(The meeting started at 5.00 pm and closed at 6.19 pm)

Content of Application:
I am submitting this application to bring about the review of the street trading consent held by Mr Salim Alami for a street trading pitch located on Broad Street outside Clarks, 105 Broad Street. Mr Alami has failed to avail himself to a reasonable extent of the street trading consent for the following consent periods: 01/11/2022 to 31/10/2023 01/11/2023 to 31/10/2024 01/11/2024 to Date
Licensing Officer's Comments:
Mr Alami has held street trading consents on Broad Street for over 16 years and for the majority of that time sold leather goods, belts, scarves, sunglasses, gloves, hats and buckles. On renewal in 2021, Mr Alami applied to sell juices, smoothies, slushies, shakes and cakes. On his most recent consent for the period 01/11/2024 to 31/10/2025 Mr Alami has listed on his consent: Burgers, Loaded Fries, Jacket Potatoes, Slushie, Lemonade, Mango Lassi, Hot Food and Drink not specifically listed on any existing street trading consent/licence previously granted by Reading Borough Council I submit this review application on behalf of the Licensing department to address the failure of Mr Alami to avail himself of the street trading consent for the majority of 4.5 years. It has been noted by a number of council officers that since

2020, Mr Alami has not been regularly trading from his pitch on Broad Street. In February 2023 the Licensing team decided to investigate this matter to establish: 1) If Mr Alami is trading and 2) How often he is trading out of the 7 days that he applied for. This investigation involved officers going to Mr Alami's pitch location on Broad Street to observe if he was trading as well as checking the town centre CCTV recordings. All checks were done between the trading hours stated on the street trading consent as applied for by Mr Alami. The findings of this investigation were included in the hearing held on 28/11/2023 and showed that, since February 2023, Mr Alami failed to trade on at least 45 days. Mr Alami did send proof to the Licensing team that he traded on 1 day, specifically 07/10/2023. This was the only known day of trading between February and November 2023.

At the hearing held on 28/11/2023, Mr Alami explained that, despite being the person making the application, he had applied to sell products that were not commercially viable all year round, and, therefore, did not trade during the winter or on cold days during any other part of the year. I raised the point that it is for Mr Alami to propose the goods that he wishes to sell, and, if they are not commercially viable, then he should have applied to sell something else, rather than not use his consent, and, in turn, deny another trader from utilising the pitch. Mr Alami then proposed that, if he was able to sell other food and drink, then his pitch would be commercially viable all year round. On this basis, the Sub-Committee decided to renew Mr Alami's consent stating that he could sell: 'Juices, Smoothies, Slushies, Shakes, Cakes and Hot Food and Drink not specifically listed on any existing street trading consent/licence previously granted by Reading Borough Council'.

The Local Government (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1982 is the legislation that governs Street Trading outside London:

Schedule 4, paragraph 7, sub-paragraph 6 of the Act states:

The council may at any time vary the conditions of a street trading consent.

Schedule 4, paragraph 7, sub-paragraph 10 of the Act states:

*A street trading consent may be granted for any period not exceeding 12 months but may be revoked at any time.

The above excerpt clearly explains that the Council can vary and revoke a street trading consent for any reason and at any time. Although this review application relates to a street trading consent, one of the statutory reasons that a council can refuse a street trading licence application is 'that the applicant has without reasonable excuse failed to avail himself to a reasonable extent of a previous street trading licence'. This point amplifies that, although the Council may refuse a street trading consent application as they see fit, the reason given in this representation for recommending the revocation of the trading consent is, in fact, one which may be used to refuse a street trading licence application, which itself is a more entrenched authorisation.

On 12/02/2025 I sent an e-mail containing a letter to Mr Alami to request from him an explanation as to why he has not been seen trading. This letter goes on to explain that if Mr Alami continues to fail to use his consent, then further enforcement action will be considered, including the possibility of applying to the Licensing Committee to revoke the consent. This letter is attached as Appendix RS-1.

Appendix RS-2 contains all of the subsequent e-mails following the initial e-mail sent on 12/02/2025 between myself and Mr Alami. In summary, Mr Alami states that his current unit is not suitable to sell the hot food items listed on his consent. In response to this, I explained that if he made the application and stated that he would be using his current unit to trade from, then he should follow through and trade with said unit. I emphasised that, if a new trader applied for a consent but did not have a trading unit, then we would not accept the application. I believe Mr Alami has 'kept his foot in the door' by renewing his consent with the intention of, one day, trading in the town centre, again. I consider this to be an abuse of the system and denies the pitch being given to another trader who will utilise it. It is appreciated that, from time to time, a trader may be unable to trade due to faults with their unit or for medical reasons etc, however, Mr Alami has had, at the very minimum, 18 months to secure a suitable unit to trade from, which, based on what I have been told from other traders, is plenty of time. Regardless of this, Mr Alami has not been forthcoming with his reason for not trading, as we would reasonably expect of a trader who is not turning up to work, instead, it has required correspondence to be sent to him informing him of the possibility of further enforcement action.

Appendix RS-3 contains a list of dates that Mr Alami has not been trading since December 2024. As per the visits in 2023, all checks were done between the trading hours stated on the street trading consent. You will note that Mr Alami has not been trading on at least 41 days, however, I believe that Mr Alami has not traded at all since at least the grant of his current consent in November 2024.

This is the second time Mr Alami has been in front of the sub-committee for the same reason; failing to trade from his consent pitch. The first time he attended a hearing he explained that the items he chose to sell were not saleable in all weathers and therefore requested to sell other food and drink items that will be marketable in all weathers. Now he is before you, again, for the same reason of failing to trade from his consent pitch, however, this time with the explanation that he hasn't been able to find a suitable unit to trade from in the 18 months since he was authorised to sell a greater range of items. If allowed to continue to hold a consent, I do not have faith that Mr Alami will utilise it to its fullest extent, that is, if he uses it at all.

It is the view of the Licensing department that the failure of Mr Alami to avail himself of the consent issued to him results in a negative impact on Broad Street. Those visiting Broad Street are being denied the opportunity to shop at one of the limited designated street trading pitches in the town centre, leading to less options and variety.

It is the recommendation of the Licensing department that the street trading consent be revoked in order that a new trader may be sought that will bring variety and interest to Broad Street and will utilise any consent issued by the Council to its full extent. There is no right of appeal against the decision of the Council.

Dear Sir,

On numerous occasions during the period of your consent for 2023-2024 you were observed not trading. You are reminded that you are supposed to trade on the days and times you have listed on your street trading consent.

Please note that officers shall be monitoring your activity on Broad Street in the coming weeks. If we believe you are not trading to the days and times on your consent, then further enforcement action will be considered.

Please respond to this letter by 28/02/2025 with a full explanation as to why you have not been trading.

The Licensing Department will consider all enforcement powers available to us, and this includes applying to the Licensing Committee to revoke your consent. If I do not hear from you by 28/02/2025, then I will consider that you no longer wish to continue trading on Broad Street and I shall write to the Licensing Committee seeking the revocation of your consent.

Good afternoon,

Please see my response to your e-mail, in bold, below:

I've been trying to get a trailer more suited to selling food. Because the current one is not set up for selling hot food well – I appreciate this but you renewed your consent with the trailer you have and therefore should be trading from. As and when a new trailer is purchased, then we would discuss updating the consent with the new unit. If a new trader came to us requesting a consent without a trading unit, their application would be refused. Furthermore, it has almost been 18 months since you attended a sub-committee in relation to your consent and, save for a handful of days, you have continued not to trade with the unit you have and were granted a consent for.

Also now the council is asking all town centre licenses to have a certain type of trailer it's made it more difficult. I was in the process of just about to buy a new one when the council decided to ask licenses get these types of trailers. But I would like to ask a question. Why would a normal catering trailer if its nice and clean , not be suitable? – The change is to improve the street scene image. The example units we sent over are not an exhaustive list. Another trader has proposed an airstream unit which has been deemed acceptable, an example is below:

If you have an idea for a unit, please forward the details to me.

Kind regards,

I was in the process of just about to buy a new one when the council decided to ask licenses get these types of trailers.

But i would like to ask a question.

Why would a normal catering trailer if its nice and clean , not be suitable ?

Normal standard catering trailers are set up to accommodate the user of a catering business to make it easier for them and be more hygienic.

The ones that the council are suggesting may look more retro from the outside. But they do nothing for the people working inside to make it more comfortable to do their job.

Would you like a person serving you food to be in a comfortable environment which helps to make the food better or a uncomfortable environment where they are frustrated?

You should ask people who use these types of trailers which ones they would prefer to use rather than thinking aesthetically from the outside only.

Because it's what happens on the inside that counts.

Good evening,

Thank you for your response, please see my responses in bold:

Are you requesting this because I am requesting a certain type of unit on my pitch – No, the fact that we are investigating you for not utilising your consent is not related to your current unit's appearance.

I would like a bit a clarity because I what to start trading more throughout the year and a unit similar to the one I forwarded you would allow me to use the pitch more effectively. – You are already supposed to be trading with the unit you hold a consent for.

As I would be able to set everything up and leave it there , then all I would have to worry about is my stock . All traders must remove their units when not trading, so this is not a possibility.

Please may you explain why you have not been trading.

I'm sure it's a headache pulling the trailer back and forth every day as I've done already for years prior, also now with the equipment in a trailer, I have to make sure everything is stable in the trailer before moving.

So 2 times a day I'm having to almost build a new kitchen and then take it down again.

Instead of just concentrating on what I'm selling.

I hope you understand what I mean.

RE: BROAD STREET STREET TRADING LICENSE REVIEW

Dear Licensing Sub-Committee,

My name is Salim Alami, and I have proudly traded on Broad Street for over 20 years, operating seven days a week prior to the pandemic, selling luggage and travel goods. I am deeply grateful for the opportunity to serve the people of Reading, and I wish to present my response to the proposal to revoke my street trading license due to reduced trading activity following the pandemic.

Background

Before COVID-19, I traded consistently, paid all fees on time, and, in over two decades, never received a single complaint from the public or fellow traders. I took pride in running my business with professionalism, reliability, and integrity.

Then the pandemic changed everything. My trade—selling luggage and bags—was severely impacted. With travel halted and holidays cancelled, demand for my products collapsed. Even today, travel habits have not fully recovered. Unlike food or flowers, luggage is not a regular or essential purchase—especially as fewer people now commute or travel abroad.

Footfall in the town centre also dropped significantly. The permanent loss of many office workers has affected all traders, but particularly those like myself who sell non-essential goods. Despite these challenges, I never gave up. I continued paying for my pitch—often at personal financial strain—not because I was inactive, but because I remained committed to returning and rebuilding.

Rebuilding After the Pandemic

Prior to COVID, I had even opened a physical shop alongside my pitch—a reflection of how well my business was doing. Post-pandemic, I explored new avenues to remain active. I experimented with selling drinks, and later, food—despite having no prior experience in either sector.

Not every attempt was successful—selling drinks alone was not viable year-round—but I learned from each experience. I observed that food vendors were among the few resilient traders on the high street, and I began developing a new catering concept.

On several occasions, I wanted to trial new products, but the system did not allow changes to hours, product types, or trading vehicles mid-license, restricting my ability to adapt and innovate when I needed it most.

I adapted my trailer to reduce costs, but soon realised that a purpose-built catering trailer would be essential for fast, efficient service. Just as I identified and secured a suitable second-hand trailer, I was informed that trailers of that type were being phased out. I sought clarification on what the acceptable standards were, but no clear guidance was provided. Faced with uncertainty and the risk of further financial loss, I could not proceed.

Instead of support or collaboration, I received a formal and discouraging email in February 2025. It made no mention of the efforts I had made or the broader challenges I was navigating. I felt it lacked empathy and recognition of the difficult path I have been walking.

Personal and Emotional Challenges

What I share next is deeply personal, but I believe it is important context. I am the sole provider for my family—married with three children, one of whom is now attending university thanks to my support. I also have close family in Gaza and Yemen, both experiencing severe humanitarian crises. The emotional toll of these ongoing tragedies weighs heavily on me and has affected my mental health. I have sought medical help to manage anxiety and depression.

This strain has been compounded by the fear of losing my livelihood. While I've observed some traders receiving supportive engagement from council officers, my own experience has often been the opposite—limited to warnings and enforcement. I have felt scrutinised and excluded, making my place of work feel less welcoming and more stressful.

Recent Efforts and Commitment

Since receiving the council's February email, I have resumed regular trading—averaging six days a week over the past six weeks—even though selling drinks alone is not financially sustainable. This recent commitment is not acknowledged in the officer's report, but I hope the Sub-Committee will view it as a clear sign of my intent to rebuild and remain a reliable trader.

If concerns persist regarding my attendance or intentions, I would gladly accept a trial period to demonstrate my ongoing reliability. I would also respectfully request clear and formal guidance on which types of trading trailers are acceptable and what specific standards apply, so I can plan accordingly and invest with confidence.

Sustainability and Risk of Vacancy

There are no guarantees that, if the Licensing Team is successful in persuading you to revoke my license, the council will not face extended periods of vacancy or disruption. The pitch on Queens Walk has remained mostly unoccupied since its creation. Until about a year ago, the second pitch at Reading Station North was mostly vacant until the arrival of the most recent trader. Similarly, the second pitch on Bridge Street was left vacant for a considerable amount of time following the closure of Charms and Flavours from Madeira, until Greece Foods eventually took it.

It is entirely possible that similar challenges would arise again in trying to secure reliable replacements for my pitch. Introducing new traders often comes with delays and uncertainty as they find their feet—or fail to. In contrast, I am an established trader with a long-standing presence in the town centre, and I am finally turning a corner after several difficult years. Surely, it makes more sense to continue working with someone who is committed, who has always paid pitch fees, and who understands the realities of the pitch—rather than risk instability and disruption to the street market.

Final Appeal

I am not asking for special treatment—only for fairness, and for the opportunity to be assessed based on the full context. I have never received a complaint and have continued paying my fees through the most challenging periods of my life. I have remained loyal to Broad Street, to Reading, and to my customers. I have worked hard to adapt in the face of enormous personal and professional obstacles.

To revoke my license now, just as I am finding my footing again, would be devastating. It would not reflect the full story, nor the genuine effort I have made over the past two decades.

I respectfully ask the Sub-Committee to allow me the chance to continue contributing to Broad Street and rebuilding my business with clarity, stability, and hope.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Warm regards,

Salim Alami
